ARMADA HOFFLER PROPERTIES

STONEGATE CAPITAL PARTNERS

COMPANY DESCRIPTION

Armada Hoffler Properties, Inc. (NYSE: AHH), was originally founded in 1979 and today still operates as a full-service real estate company. AHH develops, constructs, owns and manages high quality, institutional grade office, retail and multi-family properties throughout the Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions. The company is incorporated in Maryland and operates as a real estate investment trust (REIT) for tax purposes. AHH is headquartered in Virginia Beach, VA, where its flagship property Town Center is also located.

SUMMARY

Armada Hoffler has demonstrated its ability to deliver sustainable, low-risk growth to investors through its diversified real estate portfolio, which includes a healthy development pipeline. With May 2018 marking five years since the IPO, it is notable that AHH has almost tripled its market cap over that timeframe, growing earnings, NAV and dividends annually, with a total return in excess of 75%.

- The company's operating portfolio consists of approximately 4.6M+ rentable square feet and approximately 1,600+ apartment units.
- AHH has dependable cash flow created by occupancy at ~ 96%.
- As last reported, AHH had delivered ~ $264 million of projects since its IPO in 2013, and the company had ~$516M in the development pipeline.
- With its internal construction team and developers, AHH can manage costs and timing on projects, creating immediate equity when taking properties online at an estimated 20% spread; this factor not only gives the company several advantages in the marketplace but also significantly differentiates AHH from other publicly traded REITs operating as pure-play acquirers of income-producing properties.
- Its construction business gross profit was $7.4M in FY 2017, and management guides to $5.9 - $6.4M annual gross profit for this segment in 2018. AHH reported $25.2M in its construction backlog as of 9/30/18 and has stated the expectation to finish construction and close on the sale of a build-to-suit distribution center in Q418.
- The company constantly re-evaluates its properties and disposes of non-core assets when identified so that capital can be redeployed; management most recently announced the sale of the Wawa outparcel at a 5.4% cap rate in Q218, with the sale proceeds utilized for balance sheet purposes.
- AHH reported a normalized FFO/diluted share of $0.24 and AFFO/share of $0.20 for Q318; at $15.07, the dividend yield is 5.3% on the most recent quarterly dividend paid of $0.20; the company continues to benefit from both strong growth in its portfolio in addition to its non-traditional sources of income such as profits from third-party construction, mezzanine interest income, and certain build-to-suit asset sales.
- AHH announced subsequent to quarter-end that an agreement had been reached to sell its at-cost purchase option to the developer on Annapolis Junction for $5M, which will be recognized over 4 quarters (beginning Q418) with an extension granted on the maturity of the mezzanine loan.

We believe that AHH offers a well-diversified real estate investment opportunity for the marketplace, with a current share price trading well below the $15.55 midpoint of our estimated NAV per share range.

VALUATION

We believe Armada Hoffler Properties, Inc. holds significant potential for investors - a current yield over 5% from a diversified portfolio with high occupancy rates, coupled with strong industry dynamics and a healthy development pipeline, should result in a growing NAV and stock price. Investing in AHH provides the following benefits:

- An opportunity to limit risk in a real estate investment that has averaged returns significantly greater than those of the benchmark REIT index - MSCI US REIT Index (RMZ) - since its IPO
- Occupancy most recently reported at ~ 96% on properties with leases locked in at favorable rates for the longer-term, with staggered expirations
- A successful track record of developing properties with immediately accretive equity once put into production
- Participation in an area of the real estate industry with predicted strong growth – urban development of mixed-use properties that combine office, multifamily and retail spaces

Our current income statement projections (see page 10) are through FY18 and only include the current development activity, acquisitions and dispositions announced to date. We are projecting 2018 net operating income of $78.9M, representing an 8.4% increase YOY, with growth being generated by portfolio leasing, new properties being delivered, in addition to announced acquisition activity.

Our estimate for the construction company's annual gross profit of $5.9M is in agreement with management's projected range of $5.9 - $6.4M, a healthy contribution to AHH's operating results.

We show G&A increasing from $10.4M in 2017 to $11M in FY18, in-line with guidance as well.

We assume that interest expense will increase in FY18 to $19.0M, and we have included $10.1M of interest income for FY18. Armada Hoffler guided to a 2018 full-year normalized FFO per diluted share estimate of $1.00 - $1.03. Our model comes in at $1.03 per share normalized FFO for FY18, factoring in the 64.8M weighted average shares and units estimated by management to be outstanding for annual estimates per the most recent earnings release.

Armada Hoffler represents a compelling growth story as a dominant player in its industry with an attractive dividend yield and a significant development pipeline; below we calculate a current estimated NAV per share range of approximately $14.77 - $16.39, with a midpoint of $15.55.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

Armada Hoffler Properties, Inc. is an internally managed, publicly traded full-service REIT, which operates a diversified portfolio consisting of institutional grade office space, retail and multifamily properties. AHH also offers general contracting services to third-party clients. The company currently has the majority of its producing assets and development projects located in the Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions.

AHH's properties are primarily located in the following states:

- Virginia
- Maryland
- North Carolina
- South Carolina

Armada Hoffler has three main components within its integrated business model, which we describe in more detail below:

- A stable portfolio of completed properties with high occupancy levels generating healthy cash flow
- Properties under development that create immediate equity at the wholesale level upon completion/occupancy
- A construction segment that services 3rd party needs but overall makes up a smaller part of AHH's business

As most recently reported, Armada Hoffler owns approximately 4.6M+ rentable square feet of office and retail space, in addition to 1,600+ multifamily units, and has ~$516M in its development pipeline. The company has historically high occupancy rates across all three categories.

Each portfolio is managed for long-term, stable cash flow. Office and retail lease terms are designed to create low turnover risk; it is notable that a significant portion of office leases expires beyond 2028.

By developing all of its own properties, AHH can control the entire construction process as well as the associated costs; additionally, there are no fees or mark-ups on the projects, which makes it considerably less expensive than using a third-party. Management states that typically there is an approximate 20% spread upon completion of the total capitalized costs vs. the fair market value of the property.

While a smaller part of the overall picture, AHH's construction business is a solid source of gross profit that builds relationships, expands the Armada Hoffler reach, and continues to build upon the company's already strong name recognition in its industry. The company also recognizes revenues from its real estate services group related to development and management opportunities. All general contracting and real estate services are conducted through a taxable REIT subsidiary (TRS).

The company's most significant development to date is its Virginia Beach Town Center. This approximate $700 million development created a now thriving central business district where there was none and was formed through a public/private partnership with the city of Virginia Beach (contributed approximately $200 million in funds to the project). Since 2000, Town Center has been an on-going, 17-block, multi-phase development offering:

- 800,000 square-feet of office space
- 460,000 square-feet of retail space
- 25+ restaurants & cafés
- 723 residential units
- 410 hotel rooms
- 30,000 square-feet of conference space
- a 300-seat performing arts theatre
- a 1,300-seat performance hall

As reported in the company's last supplemental, Town Center contributes ~40% of the company's total NOI. The development has high occupancy rates and garners a premium on most of its spaces due to its location, the quality of its design, and its many A-list tenants that attract significant business to the area. The photos below show the "before and after" for the Town Center development.

MANAGEMENT TEAM

The long-term history of AHH's management is impressive as detailed by the bios included later in this report. Many members of the executive group have been together at Armada Hoffler for 2 – 3 decades and have gained in-depth knowledge of the business working in different areas of the company; the team has extensive experience in portfolio/property management, construction, and real estate development.

In addition to Chairman and founder Dan Hoffler, Vice Chairman Russ Kirk and CEO Lou Haddad, Armada Hoffler's independent board members also bring strong resumes to the company. For example:

- George Allen – Former congressman, senator, and Governor of Virginia
- James Carroll – President and CEO Crestline Hotels & Resorts, LLC
- James Cherry – Previously Chairman and CEO for the Mid-Atlantic Banking Region at Wachovia
- Eva Hardy – Served as EVP of Public Policy and Corporate Communications at Dominion Resources
- John Snow – Served as US Treasury Secretary under President George W. Bush

As last reported, AHH had approximately 15% insider ownership. Therefore, management is heavily invested on both professional as well as personal levels.

GROWTH STRATEGY

Organic growth for AHH is gained through increasing rental rates and high occupancy, while managing/reducing costs on company properties. The company's primary avenue for growth, however, is through bringing properties online via its development pipeline, creating valuable equity. By developing its own properties, Armada Hoffler can control the process from beginning to end and cut out excess fees to third-parties. And many times, the company has potential tenants looking to be located in a certain area or third-parties interested in pitching AHH an idea on a project. Armada Hoffler does partner with both public and private entities on its developments. As last reported, AHH has delivered ~ $264M of projects since its IPO in 2013, and as previously mentioned, AHH currently has ~$516M in its development pipeline.

Whether considering potential land purchases for development or established properties currently producing income, management looks for assets that offer barriers to entry against competition attempting to enter the space. The company actively monitors tenant types, tenant satisfaction, growth in sales, and lease terms and renewal opportunities, among other factors, for established properties. Location and the surrounding demographics are key in the decision-making process, as is its list of key retailers that will anchor the development. Funding is accomplished with outside capital, the use of OP units as well as utilizing proceeds from the sale of another property in order to re-deploy capital.

As part of actively managing its portfolio and always re-evaluating each property's contribution to the long-term business goals, assets that no longer fit the bill are strategically disposed of given market conditions, and the capital is re-deployed and put to work elsewhere building value. For example, AHH closed on the sale of 2 of its build-to-suit state office buildings in Q317, recognizing an approximate 40% profit margin upon delivery, and these proceeds were used to partially fund the purchase of the out-parcel space at Wendover Village in Greensboro, NC, for $14.3M, which complements nicely with a previous nearby purchase. Additionally, new lower tax rates will enable AHH to utilize proceeds from future sales as needed for balance sheet purposes, or the company can choose to continue the use of 1031 tax-free exchanges.

The Armada Hoffler management team has the ultimate goal of increasing total shareholder returns, as demonstrated by its recent growth as compared to the MSCI US REIT Index. From 9/30/17 – 9/30/18, AHH outperformed the MSCI US REIT Index by over 1000 bps.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

Many factors have been playing into real estate's strengths in this rising market cycle, including above-trend GDP growth, continued drops in unemployment, minimal CPI inflation percentages, and still moderate levels of new construction, especially commercial. And many of these factors have been resulting in solid Y-O-Y forecasts for AHH.

While great coastal cities continue to thrive for their around the clock options and activities, re-emergent downtown areas have spurred investment and development raising the quality of life in those areas with a combination of housing, retail, dining, and walk-to-work offices. This concept has lit a fire within the real estate industry and among city planners. Boomers are healthier and living longer lives, and many are still seeking to recover from the losses during the Recession. They are staying in the workforce longer and often choosing urban over suburban for living – not migrating to Florida and golf course communities as once was the retirement-age trend. This has altered the housing picture for this demographic, many not wanting to be tied to a big house with a big mortgage, and many choosing to live closer to work with little commute. And investors continue to like markets with vibrant urban centers.

According to Emerging Trends in Real Estate 2018, US and Canada, by PWC and the Urban Land Institute (ULI), the development of vibrant urban centers is almost a universal trend. The tired concept of going to a shopping mall is being replaced by ground-floor retail under small offices or residential units, offering a mix-use development opportunity and is showing great success. Armada Hoffler is currently capitalizing on these industry trends as well as others and appears well-positioned with its office, retail and multifamily segment designs as well as property locations.

Per the ULI Real Estate Economic Forecast Fall 2018, the industry outlook for real estate is favorable for the majority of current players. The 2018 report projects continued moderate economic expansion over the next three years; relatively high but moderating commercial real estate volumes; continued commercial price appreciation but at a decelerating rate; rent growth; positive returns but at lower levels; relatively stable vacancy and occupancy rates in most sectors; and continued growth for single family housing starts.

RISKS

As with any investment, there are certain risks associated with Armada Hoffler's operations as well as with the surrounding economic and regulatory environments.

- Seeking growth principally through acquisitions and development, management must be capable of consistently identifying and closing on suitable locations in their respective target markets in order to continue making accretive additions to their current asset portfolio.
- The scale of the company's development projects is large and can be longer-term; failure to control costs and stay on schedule can have negative consequences on the ultimate cost basis of the completed project. Similar risks apply to its third-party construction business.
- While the current management team has extensive experience and relationships in the real estate market, the company runs the risk of operations being significantly impacted should a member of management choose to leave the company.

- Because of AHH's classification as a REIT, the company is required to distribute annually at least 90% of its taxable income to maintain its elected tax status. This leaves AHH with the need to finance its asset purchases with outside capital at times. Availability and terms for future credit needs might not be favorable, and those as well as any future equity offerings could cause potential dilution.
- As of 9/30/18, the company had approximately 69% and 20% of the total annualized base rent of the properties in its stabilized portfolio located in Virginia and North Carolina, respectively; this creates higher geographic risk of being affected by adverse events, conditions, or governmental regulations in those concentrated areas.
- Armada Hoffler's retail properties rely on several larger, nationally recognized tenants to anchor their shopping centers. The loss of an anchor or similar major tenant could significantly affect the company's overall occupancy levels and thus seriously impair the retail property's ability to produce income and thus its value.
- Because many of the company's costs and expenses are fixed (real estate taxes, insurance, loan payments and maintenance), they will not decline if AHH's revenues decline. Therefore, any adverse economic or other conditions affecting occupancy or rental rates could have a very negative impact on operating results and affect the company's ability to service debt and pay shareholders.
- Overall, Armada Hoffler faces numerous risks commonly related to the real estate industry; the company's business is very influenced by changes in interest rates and the behavior of the lending markets, the potential illiquidity of its properties if the desire/need arises to sell, tenant preferences for renting vs. buying given market conditions and the rental rates that individual markets will bear, public concern over economic downturn or the potential that it will occur, changes to governmental laws and regulations where properties are being developed or located, and/or an oversupply or reduction in demand for office, retail or multifamily space in its markets.

COMMON REIT METRICS AND TERMINOLOGY

Net Asset Value (NAV)	Essentially represents the market value of the company's assets (in this case its income-producing property portfolio, assets under development, and its TRS construction business) less liabilities. For REITS, a common approach to calculating NAV takes net operating income divided by an assumed cap rate to arrive at a current market value for the real estate.
EBITDA	A non-GAAP measure representing earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization. AHH also excludes gains or losses from sales of depreciable property.
Funds from Operations (FFO)	Calculated as net income (loss) plus depreciation and depletion and excluding gains or losses from sales of depreciable operating property; it is a non-GAAP measure for REIT analysis.
Normalized FFO	Takes FFO and adjusts for acquisition, development, and other pursuit costs, gains or losses from early extinguishment of debt, impairment charges, mark-to-market adjustments on interest rate derivatives and other non-comparable items.
Adjusted Funds from Operations (AFFO)	A frequently used REIT/non-GAAP metric that starts with Normalized FFO, and then adjusts for stock based compensation, tenant improvement, leasing commission and leasing incentive costs associated with second generation rental space, capital expenditures, non-cash interest expense, straight-line rents, and the amortization of leasing incentives above/below market rents and the proceeds from government development grants. Management believes that AFFO provides useful supplemental information to investors regarding the company's cash generated by operations.
Cap Rate	Rate of return on real estate investment property based on the income the property generates after operating costs; it reflects the investor's return on his or her investment given risks associated with certain real estate asset types and asset location, among other factors. A higher cap rate indicates higher returns, and generally greater perceived risk.
